The Fire Flend Attacks President's Island and Destroys the County Workhouse Buildings-Loss Estimated at 88000-No

Insurance.

At half-past ten o'clock yesterday morning persons on Front street and the bluff observed a dense cloud of smoke and sheets of flame arise from the head of President's island, some four miles below the city. It was soon observed that the buildings erected by the late General Forrest as a county workperformance of the Red Stocking minstrels or house were on fire. The flames raged for Parisian blondes, six in number, who were about half an hour, and then clouds of dark assisted by three male performers. The performance was of the usual variety-theater order, consisting of songs, dances, farces, state pictures, female wrestling, etc. The lows: The large barracks which were built der, consisting of songs, dances, larces, the full performance will be repeated to-night with changes.

In lows: The large barracks which were built by General Forcest some two years ago, when he took the contract to run the county workshouse and leased the upper end of the island. On Monday night next this excellent tragedienne, supported by a strong company, will commence an engagement at the Memphis Theater. The play on the opening night will be The Woman in Red, a new piece, written expressly for Mrs. Bowers. During the week a number of most excellent d amas will be produced. as a store room; the others mostly for the prisoners and their guards. There was an L or wing to the building, sixty-five by thirty-five, used as a dining-room and kitchen, and back of this a bake-oven and laundry. This wing-building was formerly an old church. East of the main building vere the extensive stables, containing forty or fifty stalls for mules, and these also were destroyed. The mules, some fifty in num-ber, were turned out rapidly, and were saved, as were also the harness, farming tools and implements. Some fifty yards off, and in the irection toward which the wind was blowing, stood the residence of the late General Forrest. It was with great difficulty that this building was saved. All the furniture, etc., were removed, and wet blankets were placed on the roof. The residence suffered but little damage, except from scorching.
When the alarm of fire was given the convicts, numbering about one hundred, were two miles away picking cotton. The cottongin, which is situated half a mile from the main building, gave the alarm by blowing a whistle, and at once the convicts came in or Brooks et al; 5035, Maclin vs Provendale; 5073, Frayser vs Lemon; 5074, Jones, trustee, vs Coffee; 5076, Jarnagin & Frayser vs Taylor et al; 5085, Ratigan vs F. A MODEL FARM

Proposed to be Established Near this U. S. Mail-For Osceola, New City-A Scientist's View on the Sub-City-A Scientist's View on the Sub-ject-How Can it Fall to be Profitable ?

EDITORS APPEAL-I thank you and hundreds of other friends for your and their kindly greeting on my arrival in Memphis, the city of my early love. I do purpose to establish a "model farm" in the vicinity of Memphis, either in Tennessee or north Mississippi, for though vicinity means close proximity, but as space is annihilated by quick transportation, vicinity may thereby be ex-tended fifty miles or more and still be near enough for all practical purposes. The term "MODEL FARM" does not necessarily mean small farm, but example to benefit others, by proving to a demonstration that by engrafting the farm On motion, the meeting adjourned to this on the plantation the result will be very bencapable of producing all the essentials of

COMFORTABLE LIVING, and yet but a small portion of what we live on is produced here, but is brought from a distance, and the prices paid for such edib commodities go to augment the wealth of other communities. It is a well settled prin-ciple in economy that every individual com-munity, or State or nation that buys from others that which each could produce at a less cost on their own land, is a loser to that extent, and cannot therefore ever become a extent, and cannot therefore ever become as rich and prosperous as they would if a different course was pursued. Let me illustrate, by saying that if the cotton planter, by his farm, can at little cost produce an abundance of corn, he is enabled not only to have plenty of food for his teams but broad for his hands; and enables him also to produce his own meat by having plenty of hogs and cattle to slaughter at will for home consumption. Add to plenty of corn and folder an tion. Add to plenty of corn and fodder an abundance of hay, oats, rye and clover, all of which make good pasture for hogs and eattle after the hay and grain are harvested. Oats and rye will fatten hogs all summer, and the hogs will be ready for slaughter in the early winter; besides, returning all the stra- and animal excrement, to the soil very greatly enriches the land for a subsequent corn or cotton crop, and by CONSTANT ROTATION of crops in this way it requires less land, and hence less labor, to produce and gather a given number of bales of cotfon or bushels of corn. I think that by the employment of a certain number of hands in the farm department of the plantation, the planter will find that aside from the intrinsic value of the products he is very greatly benefited by the presence of the farm hands when the pressure of the cotton-picking season is upon him. It is conceded that a given number of hands can produce more cotton than they can pick in good time and in good condition, and at this point the farm hands come in as valuable auxiliaries to gather the cotton crop in good condition without the extra pay usually asked when the work presses. Thus it will be seen that a given number of hands can run the farm and the plantation, and produce all the cotton the united force can gather. I have said nothing of the importance of the Irish and sweet-potato crops and other vegetables, which enter largely into sure of the cotton-picking season is other vegetables, which enter largely into the consumption of the force employed on a ntation. All will see the necessity of atending to these As to the thieving depredations, it is very easy to have picket inclosures, with sheds, to put stock in at night. The habit of being so closed at night soon induces the stock, whether cattle, sneep or hogs, to come up voluntarily. It shall be my purpose, if I succeed in maugurating my plan, to keep a few of the best animals—best suited to our cli-mate—to sell on reasonable terms, so that those who desire to commence raising for their own use can do so conveniently. Bear in mind that all stock require attention.

must be well watered; running streams are the best for stock. I shall be glad to have my attention called to plantations for rent or for sale that are well suited to the purposes of a stock-farm, as well as for general planta-T. J. FINNIE.

THE NEW DOMESTIC SEWING-MACHINE. WHAT IT IS.

IT is the most powerful and durable, the lightest-running, and most silent Sewing-Machine made. POWRE.—The application of force directly over the needle insures ample power and enables it to go through the heaviest work with ease.

DURABILITY.—All the working parts are thoroughly hardened, and so adjusted that lost motion can be readily taken up.

BASE OF ACTION.—The simplicity of its machinery, the few bearings and points of friction, and the absence of all cams and gear-wheels, give it a light, easy action that requires but little motive power. ower.

If has an AUTOMATIC TENSION, which being selfregulating, does away with what in other machines is a fruitful source of annoyance and trouble.

There being no cogs to ratile, and no cams to rub and grind, it does its work without noise.

Its action is so light and easy that it can be run by a fine cotton thread in place of the ordinary leather Specially recommended by the medical faculty on account of its light-running qualities.

"Why! how easy it runs!" is the invariable expression of those who operate it for the first time.

It is made and finished one hundred per cent, better than any other Sewing-Machine in the market. Its working parts are finished equal to the works of a fine watch. Hechanics and those who are familiar with machinery, are invited to call and examine it.

The ladies are invited to call and see the Domestic Underbraider Sewing-Machine. To braid with the Domestic Underbraider is as simple as to do plain stitching.

I also have for sale the latest and best Piniter.

Price 33. Agents wanted.
